

redwhiteblue/here/there/everywhere

Company: anothermountainman communications

Designers: anothermountainman
(shown-Wong) communications
Stanley Wong
Kwok Wai-Ki
MCCM Creations
Elieen Ng

For Hong Kong people, redwhiteblue is the cheap, durable and multi-functional yet sun-resistant, water-proof nylon carrying bag used for cross-border travel to mainland China in the 1970s.

Stanley Wong, “Mr Redwhiteblue”, honours the symbolic meaning of redwhiteblue to Hong Kong by incorporating the motif to his photography, poster designs and art installations. His commitment has inspired fashion, product and accessory designers to instil new life to the fabric. The two-book set, titled “redwhiteblue/here/there/everywhere”, by Wong is much more than a collection of photos. It is dedicated to “all those Hongkongers, who have given their hearts and souls to their city.”

The books have been on tour to more than 80 cities and helped build a link between Hong Kong and the world.

